Fisica de la Materia Condensada, Facultad de Ciencia y Tecnologia

Universidad del Pais Vasco

Apartado 644

48080 Bilbao, Spain

PERSONAL INFORMATION

Place & Date of Birth : Istanbul, 1977.

Marital Status : Married, with one child.

EDUCATION

B.S. : Istanbul Technical University, Physics Engineering Department (2000).

M.S. : Middle East Technical University, Physics Department (2002).

Ph.D. : Middle East Technical University, Physics Department (2007).

Post-Doctoral Research:

TUDelft, Materials Science and Engineering Dept. (11/2007 - 11/2009)

UPV, Condensed Matter Physics Dept. Bilbao Crystallographic Server

[<http://www.cryst.ehu.es>] (12/2009 - ongoing)

LANGUAGES

English : Fluent (TOEFL 270/300, KPDS 95/100).

Computing Languages

Visual and Standard C++, MPI2 (via MPICH Implementation), Fortran, Perl, PHP, MySQL, HTML/XML.

Also coded simple applications and scripts in various other languages (ie. Java, Tcl/Tk, Python, etc..) when called for. Can adapt and debug new languages and methods easily.

ACADEMIC

B.S. :

Under the advisorship of Prof. Nese Ozdemir, in the area of quantum field theory, “Creation of Particles in Vacuum with Moving Boundary Conditions” titled completion thesis.

M.S. :

Under the advisorship of Prof. Sakir Erkoc, in the area of molecular simulations, “Simulation of Casimir Effect for Various Geometries” titled M.S. thesis.

Ph.D. :

Under the advisorship of Prof. Sakir Erkoc, in the area of molecular simulations, “Generation and Simulations of Nanostructures of Cage Structures” titled Ph.D. thesis (METU Thesis of the year).

Past Research Areas:

Molecular Mechanics and Molecular Dynamics Simulations of nanotubes, nanotoroids, nanogears and nanojunctions. Parallelization of optimization and simulation applications (with Prof. Sakir Erkoc, METU). Animations of a nanogear simulation study can be downloaded from <http://www.emresururi.com/videos/>.

Transformation Toughening and DataMining; Discovery of new stable compounds via Materials Informatics and ab-initio calculations (with Assoc. Prof. Marcel Sluiter, TUDelft).

Current Research Areas:

Group theory applications to solid state; development of new tools for the Bilbao Crystallographic Server (<http://www.cryst.ehu.es>); phase transformations.

References' information available upon request.

SEMI – ACADEMIC

2000 – 2007 Research Assistant at Physics Dept., METU

2002 – 2007 Department's Computer Coordinator, METU

2010 – System Administrator of the Bilbao Crystallographic Server, UPV

COMPUTER APPLICATIONS

[I have been a little bit out-of-practice with the information contained in this paragraph since 2007] Fluent in MS-Windows operating systems and working environment (experience as the computer coordinator of the department), MS-Office applications, Adobe Photoshop, various mathematical computing and formula editing applications (Design Science MathType, LaTeX and PDF library), Mathematics Software (MathWorks Matlab, Wolfram Mathematica, Waterloo Maple, MathSoft MathCAD), video editing and compression software, molecular simulation, modeling and evaluation software (Hypercube HyperChem, TINKER, RasTop).

Worked on the parallelization of molecular mechanics and optimization software using MPICH for Beowulf Clusters as well as Windows & Linux mixed clusters.

Since 2008, completely switched to Linux OS. Adept at Bash scripting. Now using Octave as the default mathematics software and if need arises, integrating GNU Scientific Library in C++ code. Also doing DFT calculations using VASP and thermodynamic calculations using Thermo-Calc software packages.
